Roth Gets Emeritus;

Last Installment

• MATERIAL MEANS of yesterday will not solve the ensuing problems of the war; new weapons must be found, and we must turn to the veterans of World War II for the answer; was the theme of President Cloyd Heck Marvin's charge to the graduating class last Friday evening at the Winter Convocation in Lisner Auditorium.

Following five selections by the ensemble from the National Symphony Orchestra, Dean Elmer Louis Kayser, Marshal of the University, presented Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld, who gave the invocation.

President Marvin, on behalf of Henry Parsons Erwin and the other members of the Board of Trustees, made the presentation of Professor Emeritus to Dr. George Byron Roth, professor of Pharmacology, who has retired after 21 years' service on the faculty.

After another rendition by the ensemble, President Marvin preceded the conferring of degrees in course with a short report on the (See VETS, Page 4)

February University Bulletin Honors Late William Wilbur

• "CONFIDENTIAL—from Washington," University news bulletin, dedicated its February issue to the late William Allen Wilbur of the University faculty, who died on January 26, 1945.

"This Bulletin," said University President Cloyd H. Marvin, "is presented in honor of the late William Allen Wilbur, devoted member of the University faculty from 1897 until his retirement in 1935.

"As Dean of Columbian College from 1904 to 1928," he continued, "and as provost of the University until 1935, Doctor Wilbur's services were invaluable in the development of the University."

Dr. Charles S. Morgan, Chief Carrier Research Analyst of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who surveys transportation problems dating from the first World War to the present, warned the American people, in an article for the news bulletin, that "the full effects of the war on the transportation of the future will not be clear until competition among carriers has begun to hit its stride after the end of the war."

Phi Sigma Sigma Wins Cup; Contributions Exceed $500

• PHI SIGMA SIGMA sorority received the loving cup award presented at the All-University Birthday Ball last Thursday to the winner of the Women's Activity Building Drive sorority contest. The cup was presented by Elaine Smith, chairman of the drive.

The seventh annual drive, which was closed for individuals and sororities on Wednesday, has netted a little over $500. Totals will not be announced until after March 15 when the drive officially closes on the organizations' contributions. Ten sororities and the Martha Washington Club collected $500.35. Director Elaine Smith stated that this was more than collected in any other drive.

Phi Sigma Sigma won its lead by a mere $34.55, having gathered $144 while Kappa Kappa Gamma gained second place with $140.85. Pi Beta Phi achieved third place with collections amounting to $53.17.

Since individual participation in filling "bricks" was so slight, no individual prize was given.

Director Smith stated the drive was "very, very successful" and the "cooperation on campus was very greatly appreciated." Funds collected during this drive will be added to the steadily growing fund for an activities building.

Dr. D. L. Borden, Clinical Professor, Resumes Position

• DR DANIEL LERAY Borden, Clinical Professor of Surgery, Director of Health Administration, and University Surgeon returned to the University from war leave at the beginning of the Winter Term.

Granted war leave in September, 1942, Dr. Borden took up duty as a Colonel in the Army of the United States. He was stationed at Ft. Meade as chief surgeon, later being transferred to Ft. Eustice, Virginia, where he served as Commanding Officer of the Station Hospital. After leaving Ft. Eustice, Dr. Borden was attached to the staff of the Third Service Command until January, 1945, when he left the service.

A graduate of the University, Dr. Borden received his medical degree in 1912. He also attended Annapolis. Later, in 1916, he received his B. S. from the University and, in 1917, his A. M.

In the absence of Dr. Borden, the Division of Health Administration was under the acting directorship of Dr. B. F. Dean, Jr., assistant clinical professor of surgery in the School of Medicine.

COGS Back Gauze Rolling; Add Members

• COGS WAR Council last week delegated all sororities to sponsor a bandage rolling campaign every Saturday at Walsh House, 2020 Massachusetts Avenue, with WAA, Big Sisters, Student Nurses and Independents supporting the drive. Zeta Tau Alpha will initiate the inter-sorority competition in bandage rolling March 3.

New COGS members will be announced at the next meeting of the organization to be held Tuesday, March 6, at 8:00 p.m. in Columbian House.

All prospective members of the COGS will forward information concerning their war work to Helen Zott at the Kappa Delta Sorority rooms, 802 21st St., before Friday, March 6. Miss Zott will designate points and submit them to the COGS board for their approval. Organizations are also asked to submit points of their members.

This semester's award to the girl earning the highest number of points, five of which must have been gained in some field outside those of major interest, will be presented at the COGS' next meeting.

Tentative plans have been drawn up by the organization, to hold tea dances for servicemen every Sunday afternoon. Once a month the COGS will send girls to the tea dances at the YMCA's USO.

Ragatz Expounds Views on Europe

• "IS EUROPE DONE FOR?" Expressing his belief to the contrary, Professor Lowell J. Ragatz expounded his views at the first of a new Student Council-Alumni Lecture series last Wednesday. Dr. Ragatz was introduced by Dr. Chester W. Holmes, president of the Alumni Association.

Dr. Ragatz stated that students of history have reached the conclusion that Europe will "bounce back," as it has in times past, from the horrible devastation and deprivation which it has suffered (See RAGATZ, Page 3)

RANDOLPH PAUL

• APPOINTMENT of Randolph Paul, formerly General Counsel to the Treasury Department to the post of lecturer on Post-War Tax Policies was announced by President Cloyd Heck Marvin last week. Nominated by President Roosevelt, Mr. Paul previously Chief Tax Advisor to Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., assumed his duties as General Counsel to Treasury Department August 4, 1942.

Early in his office, Paul endorsed the pay-as-you-go tax legislation, but strongly opposed the suggestion of Ruml and others "forgiving" all 1942 income levies to put collections on a current basis. He also voiced opposition to the sales tax as being an "extremely harmful measure."

Also appointed as lecturers on Post-War Tax Policies were Richard B. Goode and Dr. Roy Blough, former $3,000 Director of Tax Research at Treasury Department and member of the Federal Real Estate Board.

Wesley C. Haraldson was named lecturer in Economics and Dr. Leon H. Warren as Clinical Instructor in Dermatology and Syphilology.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Permit me to express my appreciation for your action in printing, in its entirety, that controversial editorial which appeared in a recent issue of the William and Mary Flat Hat. By reading the reports which appeared in the metropolitan dailies one would presume that Miss Kaemmerle advocated that such practices should go into effect immediately. Not once did we read of that third paragraph which stated "However this cannot and should not be done today or tomorrow—but perhaps the next day."

By printing the entire editorial you have allowed your readers to get the true facts of the situation and not be dependent upon the interpretation of prejudiced editors. However I disagree with the part of your editorial which stated that the Flat Hat editor violated a cardinal rule of journalism. As you are aware the editorial columns and letters to the editor columns are some of the best means of molding public opinion. How can public opinion be formed if everyone refrains from discussing controversial matters? I ask you. I think you are merely reflecting the opinion of a certain local daily on this point.

In closing may I say again that I think you have rendered an excellent service to the students of GWU by printing the Flat Hat editorial and by stating your views on faculty supervision. Such actions bespeak great journalism.

A diller, a dollar, the ten o'clock scholar—
Our prof takes a page from his book.
The rest of us holler, hot under the collar—
The prof has a goose we should cook.
A diller, a dollar, poor ten o'clock scholar
Tries vainly to come to class late.
But prof says, "Hey buddy, I've put much more study
On the best way to procrastinate."
A killer, that creature, the ten o'clock teacher,
He's lucky that glares cannot harm.
He'd better be wary, his liking to tarry
In traffic; might lose him an arm.

Activity Fee

• IN CONSIDERING A STUDENT Activity Fee, it must be remembered that such a fee is not unique. Most of the Colleges and Universities in the country have such a system for financing student activities by the student body.

The fee is not intended to provide money for activities which are having financial difficulties, but rather it is intended to provide better quality, greater interest and more support for worthy activities which need a shot in the arm in order to keep going.

One of the most important considerations is the question of who shall pay such a fee. Because of the heterogeneous construction of our student body—divided between some full time and a great many part time students, not everyone can be expected to participate in full in all student activities.

Our first point then is that this fee should be made

What You Get for $9

• THE STUDENT PAYING a fee of $4.50 per semester would be entitled to the following entertainment and services:

Three Student Council Dance Tickets (per couple)	$5.40
Four tickets to Cue and Curtain Plays	4.80
One enlarged Cherry Tree	4.00
One ticket to the Orchestral Recital	1.20
One ticket to the Glee Club Concert and Dance (per couple)	2.40
Total	$17.80

mandatory for day school students, and optional for the night or part time students. By University definition, employed students may not carry over nine hours of class work. This definition makes administration of this fee easy. By making it mandatory for those taking over nine hours of work, we ask for support of day school activities from the day school students. The night school students may take advantage of this excellent opportunity if they so desire.

A fee of $4.50 per semester ($9 per year) would grant to the individual student $17.80 of entertainment and services. At approximately only half the cost, a student could enjoy the benefits of all of the extra-curricular activities on campus.

On the basis of a registration of almost 12,000 students annually, we could expect to sell at least 3,000 booklets per semester. This would provide an income of $27,000 per year for the Student Council and its activities. Costs of administering such a scheme could conceivably run in the neighborhood of $3,500; with $3,300 for taxes and $200 for printing.

This would leave $23,500 to be split among five activities.

Cherry Tree's portion should run around $12,000 for the year. Based on the Editor's report to the Student Council last week, the Cherry Tree actually costs around $4 per copy. Rather than expect the University to subsidize the yearbook, such a budget would enable next year's staff to put out an annual that will compare favorably with any other.

By placing 3,000 tickets for Cue and Curtain's plays in the hands of the student body, we could expect to see their plays given for three nights instead of only one. In order to do this they would need about $7,500 per year. This year they started with a $200 allotment, sold season tickets, and expect to reach a total income of about $3,000. The added costs of playing three nights, the rise in quality of settings, costuming and production plus the convenience of having the plays presented more than once, unquestionably make this portion of the budget worthwhile.

The Student Council's slice would be about $2,500. This should cover the costs of the dances, plus the subsidization of the Freshman and Senior Classes, COGS, Student Nurses, Mortar Board, and Engineers Activities.

Orchestra and the Glee Club would split the remaining $1,500 to meet the costs of putting on the one big presentation each offers in the spring. Glee Club's costs of music for the season, orchestra, hotel rental and Orchestra's costs of costuming, music, accompanists and other incidentals could be met easily.

But—this plan can only succeed and be put into operation if you, the individual student, is willing to be taxed. Only through the wholehearted support of a majority of the student body could this idea ever become a reality. Won't you let us know your reaction to this proposal, by clipping out the ballot and sending it to us?

Reporter Discovers Cute Coed In 'Lost and Found' Office

By BILL DORSEY

● BECOMING ACQUAINTED WITH the Lost and Found Department through a cute Kappa blond is some fun. A search for a coed's lost glove eventually led to the discovery of this helpful, but almost unknown, University service.

Along the right wall of the Office of the Business Manager, which is located in Building D, 2013 G St., there are large wooden lockers filled with articles lost on the campus by different students. These articles, found by various other students, faculty members, and University workmen, have been turned in at this office. At present two sections of these lockers contain about a dozen coats (top-coats, raincoats, and reversibles).

Another section houses a library of text books, some practically new. Four shelves for scarfs, a like number for gloves, three for miscellaneous items, and a series of compartments for umbrellas take up the remaining locker space. Small items such as pens, combs, glasses, building passes, etc., are kept in a special desk drawer.

The office staff reports at 9:00 a. m. and is on the job until 5:00 p. m. Monday to Friday and 'til 1:00 p. m. on Saturday. Night-students can call National 5200, Extension 311, describe their articles, and make arrangements for getting found items.

No physiologically perfect tests are used to determine whether or not the claimant is honest. Obviously articles marked with initials or containing name and address are returned only after proper identification has been produced. Ordinarily, however, a simple "That's mine" is sufficient to regain property. Finders of lost articles may request that goods unclaimed after a certain period be regarded as abandoned and that "Finders-Keepers" rule be applied. Usually the department will respect these wishes.

The Lost and Found Department is conveniently located; persons in charge are considerate and not at all suspicious of claimants; its lockers and drawers contain enough goods to enable an enterprising fellow to start a variety shop or Pawn-Brokers exchange with a deluxe capitol stock; and still so few students know about it, much less take advantage of the services it offers. Perhaps the uninitiated are waiting for a blond to lose a glove . . . girl's, here's your chance!

Engineers Plan Ball March 10

Council Features Kiss-o-Meter for Couples' Clinches

● FOURTEENTH annual Engineers' Ball, to be held at the Wardman Park Hotel, March 10, from 9-12, will be opened to the entire student body.

Again the Engineers feature their "kiss-o-meter," conceived to "measure the co-efficient of osculatory response." The participants will be put behind a screen and each will hold an electrode. As the couple go into their clinch, the emotion is recorded on the machine.

The Ball is under the joint sponsorship of the Engineers' Council, Sigma Tau, honorary fraternity; Theta Tau, professional fraternity; American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and departmental societies. Dean Frederick Feiker and the faculty are expected to attend, as usual.

Roy May and his orchestra will furnish the music. The dance will be semi-formal.

Tickets may be secured from any member of the Engineers' Council for $2.40, including tax. Tickets will also be on sale at the door.

Smith Lauds Washington At All-U Prom

● AT THE GEORGE Washington Birthday Ball last Thursday at the Shoreham Hotel, Lois Smith, President of Student Council, lauded the memory of the founder of our University, George Washington.

Text of Lois' address as a part of the intermission program consisted of a history of the founding of the University, from the time when Congress chartered Columbian College on February 9, 1821, up to the present-day. The Student-Council president emphasized the diverse opportunities now being offered to students by this University in the heart of the Nation's capitol.

Announcement was made that there would be no tapping for Omicron Delta Kappa, national society honoring men outstanding in extra-curricular activities because two public figures, scheduled for tapping as honorary members, were unable to be present.

Loving cup was presented to Phi Sigma Sigma by Elaine Smith, chairman of Women's Activities Board. Award was made in recognition of the sorority's collecting the most in the campaign for funds for the Women's Activities Building. Second and third places went to Kappa Kappa Gamma and Phi Beta Phi, respectively.

Dr. Robert Harmon led the students in a rendition of the University's Alma Mater.

Approximately 140 couples attended the semi-formal dance.

Seniors Take Pharmacy Five, Phi Sigma Kappa Captures First Win from Vets, 14-13

Millar Still Leads In Scoring Race As Greaves Rises

● TAKING FULL advantage of their experience and reserves, the Medical School Seniors defeated a fighting but outclassed Pharmacy quintet 32-19 in the University Gym last Friday night, and took over top position in the league.

Joe Greaves, captain and star forward of the Med Seniors, led his team to its fifth victory in as many games with 12 points. This defeat for Pharmacy drops them down into fourth place and moves Sigma Chi, which was idle last week, into third place.

Surprising everyone, including the before-game experts, Phi Sigma Kappa entered into the win column as they edged out the Veterans 14-13. The Phi Sig's, who showed more strength than in any previous game, put on a display of playing that the Vet aggregation clearly did not expect. The Vet zone defense was broken up as Jack Sheridan, forward of the Phi Sig's found the range and scored 9 out of his teams 14 points. Tommy Haycock and "Chuck" Wallach, high scorers for the Veterans were only able to ring up 7 and 2 points respectively.

In other games played Friday Sigma Alpha Epsilon took a wallop at the expense of the Medical Seniors 44-20, and the Pharmacy School required two over-time periods to shade the Medical Freshmen 24-22. On Thursday night there were no games played due to the University Ball. Teams scheduled to play that night will get together and decide when to play off their games.

It is interesting to note that the Intramural Basketball tournament this year has drawn more attention than in past tournaments and large crowds are turning out to witness these games.

On the night of February 23, the Medical Freshmen, with their star center, Prichard, leading the way, defeated Phi Alpha by the close score of 14-13, while the Veterans gave themselves another victory by running over Sigma Alpha Epsilon 25-8.

This week the statistics of the individual scoring records showed very few changes as far as scoring is concerned. Still on top of the list is Jack Millar, of the Med Sophs, with his 75 points in 5 games. Joe Greaves of the Med Seniors remains in second place, but has increased his total to 70 points in 5 games as he scored 30 points last week while the league leader was idle. In third place is Joe Giovacchini of the Pharmacy School with 47 points in 6 games. For fourth place there is a tie between "Sonny" Gendason of Phi Alpha and Bob Prichard of the Med Frosh, who both have 40 points in 5 games. For those who are interested, the first 18 league scorers will be posted in the gymnasium.

The statistics are as follows:

Player and Team	G	FG	F	Pts
Millar, Med Sophs	5	32	11	75
Greaves, Med Seniors	5	31	8	70
Giovacchini, Phar	6	20	7	47
Gendason, Phi Alpha	5	18	4	40
Prichard, Med Frosh	5	14	12	40

declared the I.C.C. research analyst, goes to the railroads, although highway and other auxiliary carriers have played important roles in maintaining these levels.

Dr. Morgan predicts greater development of highways and public airports and greater waterway expenditures in the post-war era. However, he stated, this will contribute to the basic oversupply of transportation facilities.

Technological progress, Dr. Morgan asserted should not and will not be stopped, but there are limits to this nation's ability to support transportation facilities.

In concluding, Dr. Morgan emphasized that the post-war problems of domestic transportation are complex and highly important to this nation as a whole.

Frosh Girls Upset Senior Team, 35-25

● TOP COURT contest of the week in the Girls' Intramural League was Saturday afternoon when a revamped Frosh Buff sextet knocked off a veteran Senior aggregation 35-25. Janet Doidge with 18 counters, and Ann Hirst with 10 points were Frosh high scorers.

Monday, February 19, the Sophs overcame a third period lead by the Junior team, to eke out an 18-17 victory, and to hand the Junior outfit their first loss since their formation as a Freshman outfit.

Seegrist led the Sophomores with 12 tallies, while Read and Edwards each registered eight counters.

In the first game of Saturday's double-header, the Frosh Blue went down to defeat at the hands of the Juniors, who jumped back into form after their loss to the Sophs.

After committing four personals in the first half, Read came back to score five two-pointers and lead her team to victory. A record of 19 personals were chalked up in the game, with the Juniors committing eleven.

Elaine Smith was number two scorer for the Juniors with eight tallies, while Hanby and Berger contributed to the Blue total.

Final league tilts are scheduled for this weekend while on Saturday, March 3, the class teams will hold a tourney with the corresponding outfits of Maryland. The Frosh and Juniors will trek to Maryland while the University will play host to the Sophs and Seniors.

The league standings are:

"state of the University."

In 1910, according to President Marvin, the Attorney General requested the Board of Trustees to restore funds amounting to $325,000 which had been "borrowed" from the endowment fund for general operating expenses. In order to do so, a mortgage was placed upon the medical school. Last week, after thirty-five years, the last installment of the mortgage was paid off.

President Marvin also lauded the work of General Philip B. Fleming and W. E. Reynolds, who were responsible for the development of the hospital which is scheduled for completion in approximately 18 months.

President Marvin concluded with the announcement that while no actual figures could be released, registration is definitely on the increase.

Degrees in course were then conferred by the President to 119 recipients. Miss Myrna Jane Oesterling, graduate of the University of Illinois, received her Doctor of Philosophy, while George Edward Frost of Illinois Tech received his Juris Doctor degree.

Stephen R. Graubard, a disabled veteran of World War II, received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Government with distinction.

Seniors Out Of Running For Trophy

● "PROFESSIONALS" HAS finally invaded the University campus. In this case, however, nobody is being paid but based on prevailing Intramural Basketball Rules, four "professionals" have been uncovered in the ranks of the league-leading Medical Seniors.

There is a rule that any man who has received a letter for basketball at this or any other school is ineligible to play intramural basketball. The Medical Seniors have four of these letter men playing on their team. Their captain, Greaves, was lettered at the University of Idaho; Jack Price played ball at Amherst; Al Lowe starred at the University of Utah; and a star football player, Jim Gunning, also received a freshman letter in basketball at the University of Wyoming.

The charge that there were letter men playing for the Seniors was at first denied by the team and by the Physical Education Department. At the time when complaints were being made by opposing teams, William Myers, Director of Physical Education, said, "Whether or not the men had letters, they will still be allowed to play intramural sports, since the avowed purpose of Intramurals is to provide a participation outlet for students at the University."

Last Friday, however, Greaves admitted to the Hatchet that the team did have varsity athletes. It was decided that the Seniors will play out their schedule and win or lose they would be ineligible in the championship play for the trophy.

This development in the league will throw the entire standings into a quandary. Since all teams which have lost to the Seniors will have their losses discounted, it will place four teams in a tie for the first round championship: Sigma Chi, Medical Sophs, Medical Juniors, and Pharmacy School.

The Seniors were the only undefeated team in the league and looked like a good bet to go through the entire season undefeated.

The Seniors will still be unofficial champions of the league if they win, however, and can gain some consolation from the fact that they are the best team in the league, letter or no letter men.

Colonial Fencers Take Top Honors In City Tourney

● IN A CITYWIDE novice fencing tournament February 6, the University fencing team walked off with top honors from some of the outstanding swordsmen in Washington.

First prize of a fencing glove was awarded to Albert Maley by the Annapolis fencing coach, Delandier. Eugene Marlowe and Bea Meltzer took second and third places respectively.

Competing against the University team were teams from the Washington Fencers Club, Gallaudet College, and Maryland University. The University won three out of the six prizes awarded.

The University team, composed of Anne Hirakawa, Yvonne McCay, and Jay Wolfenson, in addition to the prize winners, was complimented upon its outstanding manners and appearance by the spectators.

Out of the Basket

By MERVIN LEWIS

No Sports Yet, But—

● THE UNIVERSITY MAY not be going back to a full athletic program next fall, but I have received from unquestionable sources the information that there are a few basketball players in the city who have been approached with the idea of coming to the University to play ball.

One man is an All-High basketball star who is graduating this year from a local high school. One is a player with an industrial league team in the city, and the other is a member of the armed forces expecting his release within a few months.

There is no use in jumping to any conclusions about whether or not basketball will come back next fall, but the reports that players are being approached is a healthy sign that the University is seriously thinking of returning to athletics in the near future.

Sports may come back next fall, and then again they might not come back until 1999. But with athletes being approached, it shows that the University will attempt to build up a backlog of players whom they can use when athletics do return.

This backlog of players will prove very important to the University when they go back to the field of play. First, they must have a nucleus of players from which to pick; and secondly, these men must provide an attraction for others to come to the University.

So the sports situation is starting to break through the clouds after two dark years.

University Star Making Good

I had the pleasure of meeting an old acquaintance at the Tech-Eastern Interhigh Championship fray last Wednesday. After talking to him for a little while, I was amazed to learn his progress in the athletic world in such a short time.

Probably nobody remembers Reno Continetti, a former varsity football player at the University in 1942. When the University dropped sports, he went to Maryland University and gained his letter and a regular berth in the Maryland line. Although the team lost most of the games, it was considered pretty powerful.

But the wonderful thing about Reno is that at 22 years of age, he has established himself as one of the best high school basketball coaches in the Metropolitan area. He never played much basketball, but in two short years he has gone up to the top with his Montgomery-Blair High School Team.

Reno learned basketball the hard way, staying up nights reading about the rules and the finer points of basketball. Blair High School is one of the top schools in the area now as far as basketball goes.

Continetti told me quite unofficially that he believed his team would have an invite to the Evening Star Court Tourney. He was quite excited about it, though he seems to be falling into the old-time coaches' feelings of "we'll probably get knocked off in the first round of play."

Win or lose though, Continetti has gone a long way, and it's a distinct privilege to say that he came from this University.

Short Shots Around Campus

Kreisberg, Sr., in town to see his son play ball with Perrusos Cafe in the Heurich League. . . Ensign Clarence Kuldell watching intramural basketball games. He is a former freshman star at the University and now on duty with the U. S. Navy. . . Jack Millar receiving stiff competition from Bill Greaves in the Intramural Scoring race. . . Veterans Club improving with every game, and if Tommy Hurst continues his present pace, they will definitely cause trouble in the second half.

North Carolina Trips Duke For Conference Title, 49-38

● UNDERATED NORTH Carolina defeated Duke 49 to 38 Saturday night to capture the Southern Conference basketball crown. North Carolina's triumph was its fourth in six final matches since the tournament began in 1933.

In regular season play, the Tar Heels wound up in third place trailed by the Citadel and led by Duke and South Carolina. William and Mary, North Carolina State, neighboring Maryland, and Clemson were the second-division teams.

The first round of tournament play saw South Carolina beat Clemson 55 to 24, Duke swamped Maryland 76 to 49, North Carolina took North Carolina State 52 to 28, and William and Mary upset the Citadel 54 to 41.

In the semi-finals, dark-horse North Carolina downed the undefeated, league-leading South Carolina quintet 39 to 26 for the big surprise of the tournament, while Duke ran over William and Mary 59 to 28 as had been expected.

Four of the twelve teams in Conference play this year, namely Davidson, Furman, V. M. I., and Wake Forest failed to qualify for tournament competition. The University and Washington and Lee, formerly in the circuit, have not been represented by quintets since 1942.

Conference rules now call for regular season play plus a league tournament. During season play each team plays the others two games. Matchings at the tournament are based on final season standings with the first place team meeting the last place one, the runner-up playing the next to last.

● BUSINESS TOTALING $250 was transacted by the Book Exchange this semester, co-directors Edwina Rothgeb and Mervin Martin stated.

SAF Plan Gets Okay By Council

Student Body Must Agree to Imposing Of Activity Fee

● AT A MEETING OF the Student Council last Friday, members went unanimously on record favoring the SAF Student Activity Fee, proposed in last week's Hatchet editorial, with the provision that the student body desires the imposition of the fee.

The Council's action was the first step in an effort to get all campus organizations, as well as the students, solidly behind the proposal.

During the week, the Hatchet will contact other organizations in an effort to get further approval of the plan in order to present a united front when it comes up for further discussion.

Because of the rather limited response to the appeal made to the students last week, 4,000 handbills, bearing a reprint of both the editorial and coupon, will be circulated among students today in an additional attempt to obtain their individual opinions.

Ballot boxes for student response may be found in prominent locations in the Student Club, Hall of Government, Building D, Strong Hall, Straughton Hall, and the Library.

Results, based on the returns will be made public as soon as tabulated by members of the Hatchet.

Should student support be sufficient to warrant going ahead with the proposal, the Hatchet will petition President Marvin to include the matter in one of the weekly student-administration conferences held each Monday in the conference room of the Library.

Student Council Politics Begins With Disclosure Of Two Tentative Slates

Principal Officers For Allied Party Remain Unnamed

● PRINCIPAL POSITIONS on the Allied ticket have not been officially released, Dorothy Wolfe, party chairman, told the Hatchet in a statement last Saturday.

Miss Wolfe mentioned, however, that two positions on the Progressive slate will also be supported by the Allied party—Juanita Hall as secretary and Phyllis Sherman as program director.

These names were submitted last Friday at an organizational meeting of the Progressive party in the Hall of Government, Room 101.

Two members of last year's victorious Allied slate are again up for office; however, they are seeking new positions. Anne Thaler, last year's freshman director, will seek the activities director's post, while Darhl Foreman, 1944-1945 program director, is running for social chairman.

Herbert Halberstadt, business manager of the Hatchet, will oppose Joe Holtzman for the office of student comptroller.

Dolores Lancaster, a newcomer to the political fray, will compete for Anne Thaler's present job of freshman director.

Council to Name New Comptroller; Balfour Resigns

● FOLLOWING a resolution passed Friday, the Student Council will take action at its next meeting at 1 p.m. on Friday in Building K to fill the office of comptroller.

The vacancy was created, following the requested resignation of Don Balfour, which was submitted last week. By secret ballot, the vote of the Council and poll of absent members was 8 to 2 against his continuing in office.

Unable to devote the necessary time to the duties of Student Comptroller, Balfour offered his resignation after the hearing.

Progressive Party Makes First Move At Friday Caucus

● LAUNCHING THE newly formed Progressive Party, the Veterans took the initiative Friday night in the first overt political move with the choosing of a slate of candidates, for the Student Council election next month. The slate selected is subject to the approval of the qualifications committee.

Acting on nominations from the floor by representatives of campus organizations, the Veterans formed a ballot based on the nominee's experience in student activities, scholarship and leadership.

With Anne Peterson and Mervin Lewis heading the progressive ticket as President and Vice-President respectively, the slate includes Joe Holtzman, Juanita Hall, Phyllis Sherman, Dorothy Snyder, Stuart Beatson, Agnes Smith, Polly Peterson and Barry Barnes.

Ben Noble, President of the Student Veterans' Club, presiding over the meeting and nominating procedure. He opened the meeting by stating the Veterans' purpose in launching the Progressive Party as an effort to create a general movement and interest in democratic student government. He further expressed the hope that the Veterans' plan for drawing up a slate composed of candidates chosen for merit alone and not on a basis of their possible political affiliation, would be accepted as such a step. Though not asking the support of other parties that might submit the names of their candidates to run on the Progressive ballot, Noble asked that they consider the slate as a sincere effort. See PROGRESSIVE, Page 4

New Advocate To Supervise At Elections

● WATCH DOG of this spring's Student Council ballot box will be Jimmy Huddleston, newly appointed advocate. He will be backed by an Election Committee composed of Margaret Williams, Sol Pargament, Bud Friend and Betty June Karle.

The prospective list of candidates must pass the approval of the Qualifications Committee, which is composed of the presidents and secretaries of seven organizations. These are Tony Pritchard, ODK; Mary Beth Shepherd, Mortar Board; Gene Synder, Pan-Hel; Stuart Beatson, Interfraternity Council; George Kilpatrick, Engineers Council, and Gordon Calvert, Student Bar Association.

Professors Discuss Peacetime Military Training at Meeting

● THAT DECISIONS regarding peacetime military training should be made now was the decision of the University chapter of the American Association of University Professors at the meeting held Wednesday, February 28, in the Hall of Government.

Dr. Lowell J. Ragatz, chairman of the University chapter, presided. Decisions were reached by majority vote.

The group also went on record as favoring universal military training in peacetime for all physically qualified men. Specifically, it voted against exemption for conscientious objectors, or ministerial and medical students.

Faculty Member Reviews Taxation

● FEATURED in the February issue of The George Washington Law Review, released last week, is a leading article by recent faculty appointee, Randolph Paul.

Mr. Paul's article, entitled "Partnership in Tax Avoidance," discusses in detail the problem of attempted family avoidance of income tax through the formation of husband-wife partnerships.

Mr. Paul, formerly general counsel to the Treasury Department, is an authority on tax problems and policies; his nomination to the University as lecturer on Post-War Tax Policies was recently announced by President Cloyd Heck Marvin.

Musicians Wanted

● STUDENTS interested in formation of an all-Student orchestra to play the celebrated music of Jerome Kern in the forthcoming Cue and Curtain production "Roberta," are requested to leave their names at the box office in Lisner Auditorium.

Dr. Alva Wilgus Reads Paper At Inter-American Institute

● DR. ALVA CURTIS WILGUS, professor of Hispanic American history, returned February 25 from Florida where he was guest lecturer for the Inter-American Institute at the University of Miami during its annual forum held February 12 through 15.

Professor Wilgus read a paper entitled "Economic Aspects of the Good-Neighbor Policy" on February 14. Other speakers included Dr. Carlos Davila, former president of Chile; Dr. J. F. Normano, of Brazil, and Dr. Zamora of Cuba who spoke respectively on the economic aspects of South America, Brazil and the Caribbean area.

The conference, first since the outbreak of war, was held at the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla. Papers presented there will be printed in book form by the University of Miami Press.

On his return trip, Dr. Wilgus lectured at Rollins College at Winter Park, the University of Florida at Gainesville, and Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee.

While in Orlando, he made a 30-minute radio broadcast, sponsored by the Orlando Junior Chamber of Commerce over NBC. His talk was entitled "The Good Neighbor Policy."

Appointed to the University faculty as associate professor of Hispanic American history in 1930, Dr. Wilgus has since served as Acting Dean of Columbian College and director of the Inter-American Center. He was appointed professor in 1940.

Among other literary activities, Dr. Wilgus has served as specialist on Latin-American affairs for the Washington Post and the Evening Star.

Dr. Wilgus is a well-known delegate at historic, geographic, economic, and general conferences on Latin America. He is also a member of many professional societies pertaining to his field both here and in other countries.

Keeping pace with the current interest in Latin America, Dr. Wilgus has embodied in his courses many new and interesting features of Latin American history, culture, and political upheavals.

Students Discuss New Department

● FOURTH of the present series of Student-Administration Conferences was held last week on the question of the teaching of Religion at the University.

After deeming it highly desirable to include a Department of Religion in the University curricula, the students, administration officials, faculty and religious advisers discussed problems of formal classroom work and the resultant aid to students in the understanding of religious life.

Discussion on the return of a Department of Journalism will be the subject at the next conference. Members of Pi Delta Epsilon were requested to prepare factual data and present opinions at this coming meeting. No date has been set.

Cornell Refused

● IN A PERSONAL letter to Katherine Cornell, President Cloyd Heck Marvin stated that Lisner Auditorium would not be available until certain problems are solved, the Hatchet learned from authoritative sources last week.

President Marvin had received a letter from Miss Cornell late in February, asking if it would be possible to hire Lisner Auditorium for a week's presentation of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

Poor Politics

• DESPITE A LOT OF HIGH ideals and good intentions, the Veteran sponsored Progressive Party has already gotten off on the wrong foot. Appealing to the voters on a plank of presenting the most qualified students for positions on the Student Council, rather than choosing them on the basis of organization affiliation, they failed miserably in their first attempt at campus politics.

Anyone closely connected with activities on this campus, can easily see the wheat mixed in with the chaff in their slate. Their greatest error was in letting the members of the Vets Club, without any previous knowledge of the candidates proposed, choose a slate with only a few minutes study of the qualifications of each candidate.

As presented, it is no better or worse than any slate ever proposed by any partisan political party.

Insofar as their desire to split the ticket goes, there they have succeeded. As we tally them up, the now defunct USL party got at least four candidates, Allied party got three, the Vets placed one of their own members on the slate, one candidate is an Independent, and the Sigma Chi's will not commit themselves on the affiliation of their candidate.

As we see it, this shrewd political move is nothing more than a compromise. The woefully weak members of USL, who couldn't find ten qualified candidates, are assured of at least four places on the slate; Allied party, facing their first serious competition in three years, are assured at least three offices; and, in the interests of greater representation and good, clean, honest student government, a Vet, an Independent and a Sigma Chi get a chance at the polls.

As for the Allied party, they have been caught with their pants down.

It's no secret that they are still unable to decide who their candidates shall be. That's the reason they were only willing to release six names. Inside the party there is a big fight going on as to the political expediency of nominating a sorority sister of the present Student Council President or of choosing a Phi Sigma Kappa whose record is not as strong. Apparently they do not have a candidate for the vice-presidency, either.

No matter who wins, our sole interest is in the total number of votes cast. Unless more students are actually concerned in their student government to get out and vote, such government will continue to be weak, ineffective and representative only of the social groups who sponsor candidates.

Rheba, the Little Amoeba

Momma, if the PAC could "get out the vote," couldn't we do it here too?

Lisner's Legacy

• PRESIDENT MARVIN'S REFUSAL to allow Katherine Cornell to present "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" at Lisner Auditorium was apparently based on some very good reasons. No explanations were offered, but our analysis of the situation leads us to the opinion that it was due to personnel and labor union difficulties.

It would have been nigh onto impossible to appoint a Manager of the Auditorium, a Business Manager, to hire box office personnel, ushers, hat-check girls, stagehands, electricians, ladies room attendants, and ticket takers in time to handle the show efficiently.

But even more than that—in so doing it would have meant the settling of many issues with the various unions concerned. In the entertainment world, every cog in the wheel belongs to his own union. More than that, these unions cooperate so closely, that Lisner Auditorium would have to become a completely closed shop. This would have committed the University forever and a day.

Some sort of arrangement with the unions is necessary if Cue and Curtain is to play in the Auditorium and use student help alongside of union employees.

Moreover, once the Auditorium is used by any organization other than the student body, it passed into the profit-making class and becomes taxable at a much higher rate by the Treasury Department.

So, all in all, we agree that at the present time it is not to the best interests of the University to open the Auditorium up.

However:

Why, in the name of Old Beelzebub, wasn't a Manager appointed a long time ago? Why on earth hasn't some sort of policy decision been handed down on the use of that Million Dollar tomb? What can be so important as to keep the University from accruing great profits from the rental of Old Abe Lisner's edifice?

Ever since the war started we have been told of the great financial difficulties under which this University is struggling. We have never been a rich school, and here is a Million Dollar investment that is realizing absolutely nothing. It's a drain on the pocketbook, in its present form.

Just two weeks ago the President appointed a Superintendent for the new Hospital. The appointment was made while the empty buildings on the condemned property haven't even been raised. Yet the Lisner Auditorium, which was started in 1941, still remains closed with no Manager responsible for it and no decision as to its use.

No matter what the reasons, the Auditorium is too valuable a piece of property and potentially too important to the life of the University to be allowed to sit around waiting for the termites to get at it.

Why not open it up to the students. Present educational movies, newsreels, weekly assemblies, cultural programs, and perhaps a meditation hour when students and faculty could come in and listen to soft music and relax?

Ten Years Ago

—In the Hatchet

• PLUGS FOR THE cooperative store covered the editorial corner. It appears that the store sold everything from sheets to apples and back again to brooms and needles.

The University debate team was broadcasting an argument with the University of Florida concerning international shipment of armament. N. B. We were debating agin' it.

Again hitting a prophetic note, 87 percent of our students told the Literary Digest (remember?) Peace Poll that U. S. would fight if invaded, 73 percent, however, thought the U. S. could avoid war.

Medical history was made in the University Hospital operating theater when a man dead seven minutes returned to life.

Is Objectivity Possible In Teaching Religion?

• THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE, written by the Adviser to Presbyterian students at the University, was submitted to The Hatchet as the opinion of the writer on one of the main points touched upon at the Student-Administration Conference on the Teaching of Religion at the University, held last week.

By ELWYN ALLEN SMITH

• PRESIDENT MARVIN'S SYMPATHY with student interest in religion was evident at the forum which he conducted Monday night. Discussion of the academic approach to religion and types of courses revealed practical, serious thinking among students and administration leaders. One of the most formidable problems of academic courses in religion is that of assuring a truly objective approach to the subject.

Objectivity is a prime deal of liberal education. But objectivity has lost much of its original meaning, as practiced today. Fairmindedness, thoroughness, clear judgment, seriousness—these characterize the objective scholarship we admire.

Some professors—and the attitude is inevitably reflected in some students—believe objectivity requires that they hold no opinion about anything; that education should consist in retelling facts without interpretation or evaluation. Does not objectivity have a positive side as well? We hold that objectivity requires not only that a scholar suspend judgment when facts are incomplete; it also requires him to formulate an opinion when facts are complete enough to make a fair provisional judgment possible.

These professors give the impression that objectivity is sacrificed if one takes an opinion seriously. To them, enthusiasm implies blind partisanship. They represent themselves as objective because they believe wholeheartedly in nothing.

Fortunately, in the realm of science the light and airy academic is outnumbered by serious men who give their lives to educating and persuading for the sake of human advance. But there are important areas of inquiry which science has not yet illuminated. Genuine scientists must be seriously agnostic when dealing with the unknown. Irresponsible academics are agnostic primarily because they are not seriously interested in unsolved problems.

Flippant agnosticism crops out most plainly when confronted by the problems to which religion addresses itself. It is impossible for anyone with any respect for science to set forth the final answers to the central problems of religion—God, freedom, immortality. But that does not mean that anyone, academic or otherwise, can abandon the problem of religion with a cheap show of scientific agnosticism: "Since we can't be sure, why bother?" The future of international relations is also unknown. Yet we all realize that passive skepticism at a time when only wise and courageous action offers any hope of lasting peace will surely cost the lives of our sons in the next war.

Do we scorn chemistry because it began with alchemy's effort to turn base metals into gold? Do we ridicule astronomy because its historical beginning was in astrology? Why condemn religion because of its early kinship with superstition? Why should academics be permitted to go unchallenged when they conceal personal flippancy about religion under the cloak of a false objectivity?

Students who are serious about problems dealt with only by religion find President Marvin's response to their request for instruction most heartening. They hope this will mark a revival of an objectivity which is marked by fairmindedness, seriousness, and courage.

BROOKS HAYS

Alumni Forum To Hear Hays Wednesday

• CHOOSING AS HIS topic, "From London, Arkansas, to London, England," the Honorable Brooks Hays, Representative from Arkansas and alumnus of the University Law School, will speak tomorrow evening at 8:15 p. m. in Room 1, Hall of Government, 21st and G Streets, N. W.

This talk will be the second lecture in the Wednesday evening series sponsored by the University General Alumni Association and the Student Council.

Congressman Hays, who was born in London, Arkansas, made an unofficial trip with Congressman Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, to London, England, where they had unofficial talks with members of the English Parliament on the development of an inter-parliamentary congress for all nations.

They also discussed general problems of legislators and the future of parliamentary and representative government. Mr. Hays said that he would attempt to present some of these viewpoints in his speech.

While in Europe, the two Congressmen also made a tour of American overseas camps and hospitals gaining valuable information of the military aspects of the Western Front from important military leaders. Congressman Hays had served in the United States Army during the first World War.

Elected to Congress from the 5th Arkansas District in November 1942, Representative Hays was re-elected this past November. He began his political career shortly after receiving his LL.B. from the Law School. He served as Assistant Attorney General of Arkansas from 1925-'27.

After the Board meeting there will be a general meeting of COGS. The names of the new members will be announced at this meeting.

A call for an organization to sponsor the blood donor drive will then be made.

Virginia Nails, chairman of COGS, has announced that bandage rolling will go on a percentage basis. Tentative dates have been set for "sororities" to participate, and these will be announced after they have been decided on in Pan Hellenic meeting.

Plans are also being discussed for establishing a Red Cross unit on campus.

Engineers Schedule Annual Ball

Council Observes New Curfew Law; Nine to Midnight

• THE ENGINEERS will hold their 14th annual Engineers' Ball at the Wardman Park Hotel on Saturday night, March 10, from 9 to 12. Laying aside their slide-rules, and math books for an evening they are inviting the entire student body to help them celebrate.

As a feature attraction the Engineers will again present their accurate measuring machine known as the "kiss-o-meter," which is designed to record the emotional reaction and responsive comeback of the couples as they clinch behind a screen while each holds an electrode attached to the meter.

The joint sponsors of the ball are Engineers' Council; Sigma Tau and Theta Tau, respective honorary and professional fraternities; the various national societies of Electrical, Chemical, Civil, and Mechanical Engineers represented on the campus; along with the several active departmental groups.

Dean Frederick Feiker of the School of Engineering and other members of the school's faculty are expected to be on hand to enjoy an evening of dancing to the music of Roy May and his orchestra.

Tickets for the semi-formal affair may be secured from any member of the Engineers' Council and also at the door on Saturday evening. Price of admission per couple will be $2.40, including tax.

Special notice is called to the time set for the dance—nine to midnight. Owing to the Curfew Law now in effect dancing must end by twelve, and to compensate for the lost hour, the ball will begin at nine.

Semi-Finals Open Ring Show March 20

Tourney Entrants Total 35

April 15 Scheduled As Tentative Date For Title Bouts

● REMEMBER MARCH 20, for that is the day 35 well trained and ambitious young men will enter the boxing ring at the University gym.

The March 20 boxing show will be the semi-final event of the University boxing tournament. The men participating in the 16 bouts will be angling for a spot on the championship card, which is tentatively scheduled for April 15.

These men will have finished 12 weeks of vigorous training under the expert tutelage of George "Doc" Lentz, University trainer and boxing authority. After ten weeks of preliminary training the boxers have settled down to determined training, which features a lot of contact work among the individual contestants and heavy bag work.

Lentz has stated that no boxer will be allowed to enter the ring unless he has kept up his training requirements.

Bouts will consist of three rounds, each round lasting three minutes with one minute rest in between. The lightweights will use newly purchased 12 ounce gloves while middleweights, light-heavies, and heavyweights will don 14 ounce gloves. As usual a trophy will be awarded to the outstanding boxer in the tournament.

Included in this year's tourney are Dick Roberts, one of last year's winners, Chuch Wallack and Tom Haycock, a pair of wiry war veterans. Also entered in the bouts are a couple of Latin-American battlers, Carlos Lopez and Pedro Ramirez. These boys are being helped considerably by "Pete" Leonarduzzi, last year's runnerup for the trophy.

Judges, picked for their ability and sense of sportsmanship, are D. Bernice Jarman and Dean Elm. Louis Kayser, both of whom officiated at last year's fistbouts. The referee has yet to be named.

Club Plans Movie

● LAST OPEN meeting of the semester of El Club Espanol will be held Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in Columbian House. Students with one year of Spanish or the equivalent are eligible for membership. Program for the meeting will include Spanish movies and music.

University Seniors Sink Maryland Court Team, 29-21

● STAGING a scoring spree in the second quarter, the University Women's Senior basketball team defeated the Maryland Seniors, 29-21 at the University gym last Saturday afternoon. In the other game of the twin bill the sophomores of both universities ended in a 22-22 deadlock.

The Senior Colonial team was unable to break through the Maryland defense in the first quarter and with Jackie Richards of the Old Liners leading the way, the Maryland team was on top, 7-6.

The second quarter was a different story. Taking advantage of their superior height, the seniors ran up ten points while holding their opponents scoreless. Holding the lead the rest of the way, they went on to win the game. Betty June Karle was high scorer in the game with 12 points.

Junior Team Nips Seniors; Tie Frosh For Championship

● TIED FOR the championship in the Girls' Basketball League are the Junior and Frosh Blue teams. The final games, which saw the Juniors defeat the Seniors, 24-21, and the Frosh Blue down the Sophs, 20-13, were played last week at the University Gym.

During the first half of the Junior-Senior game, the lead changed several times, and when the half-time curtain came down the Senior team was leading, 12-11.

But the second half saw the Juniors come up with a big rally, and with the Senior's ace player, Betty June Karle, out on fouls, they emerged victorious over their rivals.

The Frosh Blue team was never seriously threatened by their opponents, and maintaining a lead from the opening gun, they were never headed.

Sig, Sophs Cop First Place Spot

By GEORGE KRUGER

● BY VIRTUE OF THEIR wins last week, Sigma Chi and the Medical School Sophomore quintets are tied for the lead in the first round championship play. The Med Seniors, however, maintained their clean slate with seven victories against no setbacks.

Sigma Chi proved a strong contender for top position, as they defeated Phi Sigma Kappa 20-13 last week. On Friday night they moved ahead again, as they edged out a fighting but outclassed Med Junior five 19-17. In both these games Sigma Chi's stone wall defense was responsible for their victim's low scoring.

The Med Sophs, with Jack Millar leading the way, ran over the Med Fresh 34-9. From the beginning of the first quarter, the Sophs ran up a lead that the Frosh were never able to overcome. Millar, high scorer, made 12 points, while Steve Mills was runnerup with eight. On Friday night the Sophs came up against their toughest game as they triumphed over a flashy Pharmacy quintet 37-28. Millar again showed that he was the man to stop, as he tossed in six baskets and four charity throws for a total of 16 points.

TEAM STANDINGS

Team	Won	Lost
Med. Seniors	7	0
Sigma Chi	5	1
Med. Juniors	5	2
Med. Sophs	4	3
Pharmacy	4	3
Veterans	3	5
Phi Alpha	2	5
Med. Frosh	2	6
SAE	1	5
Phi Sigma Kappa	1	6

In other games last week Phi Alpha Fraternity ran over SAE 26-17 for their first win of the season.

Thursday night the Med Juniors trounced SAE 29-7. Phi Alpha also scored its second straight win that night, defeating Phi Sigma Kappa 26-25, in an overtime on Merv Lewis' foul shot.

Individual scoring standings have changed little. Jack Millar, of the Med Sophs, still holds undisputed possession of first place, with 108 points in seven games. In second place, with 82 points in 6 games and slowly moving up, is Bill Greaves of the Medical Seniors. The third spot is taken by Joe Giovacchini, Pharmacy forward, who has a total of 56 points in 7 games played. Still occupying fourth place is "Sonny" Gendason of Phi Alpha with 53 points in 7 games.

Statistics are as follows:

Player and team	G	FG	F	Pts.
Millar, Med Sophs	7	46	16	108
Greaves, Med Seniors	6	37	8	82
Giovacchini, Pharmacy	7	24	8	56

Out of the Basket

By MERVIN LEWIS

● NOW THAT THE SENIORS have been declared ineligible for the Intramural hoop trophy, the league will simmer down to a tough fight among six or seven teams. From here on in the team showing the most aggressiveness will cop the championship. Aggressive spirit and nothing more.

The Med Sophomores, behind their high-scoring forward, Jack Millar, seem to have the inside track on the trophy, but noticed improvement in the other teams keep them from being a complete runaway.

The only teams apparently out of the running completely are Phi Sigma Kappa and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Even these two outfits occasionally pull unexpected upsets and throw the league standings out of gear.

Biggest disappointment in the league has been the vaunted Pharmacy School team, which suffered a slump after its first few games and has not been able to pull out of a nose-dive. With the great potential scoring power they have, it is almost impossible to find a reason for the utterly lopsadaisical playing of their last five games. But they will prove tough in the second half despite the fact that their scorers have been shackled. Any team with Joe Giovacchini, Stan Levin, Dave Lenarduzzi and Jimmy Brown is likely to break loose in a rash of scoring.

The Med Juniors are still an unknown quantity and until last week, had won the majority of their games, though they never won by any overpowering scores.

For my money, though, Sigma Chi and Phi Alpha remain dark horses in the league.

Sigs, Alphans Loaded for Bear

Just as Pharmacy has been the big disappointment, the Sigma Chi quintet has been the big surprise of the year. It was thought they had nothing on the ball, but days of constant, serious practice have moulded them into a fighting aggregation. They have no outstanding scorer nor shining playmaker, but they play with a ferocious tenacity, hard to beat. Just how good they are will be determined this week when they meet Phi Alpha.

Phi Alpha has been an in-and-out team throughout the first half. They have four regulars from last year's team playing once again, and in their last few games, their big scorers have started to click. A close look at their scores reveals that of their five losses, three have been by three points or less. They have been badly beaten by only one team, the Medical Seniors. If the Alphans pull out of the doldrums, they can well be a threat in the second half play.

Rounding out the league is the best-improved team in the league, the Veterans Club. Under good coaching, they are coming around slowly, and, if they are able to hold down their fouls, look for them near the top of the pack.

Athletes Attend Perusso U.

The University may not have a varsity team to carry its colors, but a new university has grown up to accommodate Colonials of the past, present and possibly the future. This new school, which has sprung up in the city, is called Perusso U. Now, Mr. Perusso owns a restaurant here in town and also runs a basketball team in the Heurich League.

On his team are five men from the University. Two are men of the past, George Garber and "Reds" Auerbach. Three are present students. Two of them, Barry Kreisberg and Si Wagman, played with the University "Informals," and the Heurich League is nothing new to them. The fifth University boy is Ted "Laddie" Reichwein, who has not seen much action, since he is out of condition to play much basketball.

The first four men are all regulars, and with their leading the way, the Perusso team has built up a winning streak of 18 straight games, as well as a season's record of 21 and 1. Their lone loss went by the boards by two points in their third game of the season.

Right now Perusso's is in the midst of a playoff with three other teams for the Heurich League Championship. They are also favored to win the Middle Atlantic Tournament and a possible bid to the National AAU Tournament in Denver.

According to most of the basketball authorities in town, they are about the best amateur team to play around these parts in the last 10 years. So good, in fact that they have been unable to book outside games simply because the outstanding teams in the neighboring states have been ducking them.

Should they go to the Denver Tournament, the true evaluation of the team will finally emerge.
